Comox Father Held On Murder Charge After Son's Death

Capt. Hugh Guthrie, Ex-Imperial Officer and Boer War Veteran, Confesses He Threw Stick Which Jury Decides Caused Wound in Head From Which Death Resulted the Following Day; Disagreement Over Repair of Water Trough; District Shocked Over Tragedy.

Special to The Times

Courtesy, June 18.—Following a verdict of death from misadventure returned yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the death of Patrick Thomas Guthrie, sixteen years, the father, Capt. Hugh Guthrie, of Guthrie Farm, Comox, appeared before Magistrate Bates yesterday evening on a charge of murder and was remanded for eight days. A warrant against Guthrie was issued by Sergeant Mansfield of the provincial police. Guthrie who is an ex-Imperial Army officer and Boer War veteran has been a resident of Comox for many years. The mother of the lad was on a visit to her old home in Scotland. The verdict of the jury was that the sixteen-year-old lad came to his death by misadventure as the result of being struck on the head by a stick thrown at him by his father on June 14. Death occurred the following evening at St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox. Capt. Guthrie made a written statement to the police and a voluntary statement before the coroner. The district was deeply shocked by the tragedy and much sympathy is felt for the family.

FATHER TELLS STORY

According to the account of the tragedy given by the father at the inquest, he and the lad were mending the water supply pipe into the horse trough on Saturday. He had taken off the stop cock when his son Patrick offered to fix it for him. When the job was completed Guthrie told the boy it was not right, and that a washer would have to be put on. The lad agreed, but refused to go and fetch one when asked, saying that he had done enough work. On being ordered to fetch the washer again the lad commenced to talk back to his father, and ran down the lane on one side of the trough and the father on the other. Guthrie picked up a small stick and threw it at him. The boy ducked his head and the stick, which was aimed for his body, hit him on the head. After he was hit he continued running down the lane still giving his father what the father termed "cheek." The lad did not stop till he reached the creek, when he fell blood on his face. Guthrie told him to stop and let him look at his head, but the boy refused. He remained away from the house for three hours, and had been out in the sun without a hat. Guthrie said the father asked him if he was hurt, and he said he was not. About half an hour after vomiting set in, the father seeing that the boy was ill, got him to sit down and covered him with rugs as he was shivering. A little afterwards he was put to bed, but as he continued to get worse the doctor was sent for. The boy could talk, but could not walk unaided.

Premier MacDonald Asks Liberals and Conservatives to Aid in Reducing Unemployment in Britain

London, June 18.—Premier MacDonald to-day invited Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, and Right Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, to join a non-partisan conference on measures for unemployment relief throughout Great Britain. Mr. Baldwin had not indicated his decision to-night.

London, June 18.—Unemployment, the most vexing problem of Great Britain for weeks and months, and even years, has come, within the last few days, to assume the proportions of a national emergency—an emergency recognized as such by all three parties in the House of Commons and by the entire press of the United Kingdom.

Premier MacDonald, who has promised his own party and the country that he would devote all his energies to the alleviation of the problem, yesterday met 200 representatives of municipal authorities at the Guildhall and discussed the elaboration of schemes for unemployment relief.

Yesterday evening the Prime Minister conferred with the leaders of the Liberal and Conservative parties on the same vital subject. He talked separately with Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George and Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, giving to each a candid outline of the situation as he saw it and asking their co-operation in this time of national stress when politics, he urged, must take second place to the good of the country as a whole.

Vancouver, June 18.—Discrepancies amounting to $100 have been discovered in a partial audit of the accounts of George T. Winter, thirty-two-year-old city sewer department clerk, whose body was found with a bullet through the head and a revolver nearby in a house at the old Royal Vancouver Yacht Club quarters Monday afternoon.

The discrepancies covered a period of only a few months, according to Mayor W. H. Malkin.

"If an act saying these were defalcations," said the Mayor, "I say they are discrepancies. The amounts involved cover a period of a few months, but the auditors are continuing their investigation."

The portion of Winter's accounts under examination, said the Mayor, represented collections for sewer connections, which were handled by the clerk personally. It is stated at the City Hall that at busy periods collections in the department ranged from $500 to $1000 a day.

ACCOUNTS SUSPENDED

Yesterday the investigating committee of the city council suspended Archibald Hutchins, accountant at the city hall, on the witness stand.

FINE OF $500 IS IMPOSED AT WINDSOR, ONT.

Ex-Official of Builders' Council Admits Combines Act Violations

Windsor, Ont., June 18.—George R. Baker of Toronto, former vice-president of the Amalgamated Builders' Council, to-day pleaded guilty in police court to four charges under the Dominion Combines Investigation Act. He was fined $500 or six months' imprisonment on one charge and suspended sentence on the others. The charges were that of illegally engaging in a combine to fix common prices for plumbing supplies.

In pleading guilty, Gerald McHugh, K.C., Baker's counsel, submitted several facts in extenuation. Baker, he said, had withdrawn from the A.B.C. before the Waldron Royal Commission investigation, immediately after Hon. Peter Henshaw, Federal Minister of Labor, had informed him the organization was probably illegal.

Baker was given seven days in which to pay the fine. After the settlement of the case, A. O. Slaght began cross-examination of W. F. O'Connor, K.C., defence counsel, and one of those charged. Mr. O'Connor was in the witness box all day Tuesday under cross-examination by Louis M. Singer, K.C., commissioner of the A.B.C.

Cowboys and School Children Greet Visitors Pressing on to Frontiers

Quesnel, June 18.—The real frontier of British Columbia, this country of pioneer enterprise and enduring hope, gave a rousing welcome to Premier Tolmie's Alaska road caravan as it sped northward beside the Fraser.

Everywhere along the Great North Road, from Williams Lake, the ranchers turned out to watch the caravan along the roadside. At the little log school-house children left their classes to wave to the Premier and his party. Cowboys from the big ranches, in their four-gallon hats, chaps and high-heeled boots raced along beside the automobiles.

SEEDLING ALONG

It was wet in the Cariboo on Tuesday, and when it is wet, Cariboo is wet. However, the caravan bowed northward at forty miles an hour over a road that had been gravelled and relocated and soon will provide an entirely new route, from Williams Lake to Soda Creek, cutting twenty miles off the old Cariboo Road. The United States newspapermen, who had expected trouble and put chains on their cars, were amazed, and newspaper correspondents from United States papers are telling their readers that they can come to the north without risk of any trouble. ## MAN HIT BY HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER DIES

Police Redouble Search For Driver Following Death; Few Details Known

Lewis Jackson, sixty-four years old, second steward on the light-house tender Estevan, died in the Jubilee Hospital this afternoon at 12:40 o'clock from injuries sustained when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver yesterday evening on Bay Street, near the Turner intersection. Police are redoubling their search for the driver of the car, but late to-day had not located him. An inquest will be ordered by Coroner E. C. Hart, it is understood.

According to police reports, Jackson was found on the south side of Bay Street at 11:30 o'clock last night by C. Croft, an operator in the employ of the B.C. Electric Railway.

Returning to town on his 11:30 trip, the operator saw the body, lying in a pool of blood, with the head toward the curb. He immediately notified the police, Constable MacPherson, and Driver P. Atkinson rushed to the scene and conveyed the injured man to the Jubilee Hospital. He was attended by A. E. McKelving, who announced at that time that Jackson was suffering from a compound fracture on one leg, a broken arm and other serious injuries.

Further reports stated a resident of Bay Street heard a crash and rushed to the road. Although he lost no time, he could see only the injured man lying on the street.

Jackson had been second steward on the Estevan since 1919. He was a quiet man and well liked by all members of the crew.

Police to-day notified his brother, in California, of the accident.

Bennett Is Scored By King For Exaggerating Unemployment State

Prime Minister Tells Audience at Peterboro, Ont., No Country Has Weathered Financial Crisis So Well As Canada

Canadian Press

Peterboro, Ont., June 18.—"I make this statement without any reservations, that no country in the world has come through the recent financial crisis with a more creditable showing than Canada. This is not merely the testimony of government officials, but the unanimous verdict of presidents and general managers of financial institutions, and the heads of investment houses who: business it is to study comparative statistics of trade and industry."

Premier King, addressing a great audience here yesterday evening, thus declared his faith in Canada's strength after roundly scoring Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, for having "exaggerated out of all proportion" the unemployment which exists in the Dominion and made the question a political football.

The Prime Minister's address, enthusiastically applauded at many points, was the second of his election tour, from Peterboro he came to Ottawa, where he is spending to-day before leaving for Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

As at Brantford on Monday night, Mr. King dealt with a variety of topics of national interest, including the St. Lawrence Waterways. (Concluded on Page 5)

Ascot, Eng., June 18.—Panic swept through the throngs of fashionable persons at the Royal Ascot race meeting to-day when a terrific electrical storm broke over the enclosures and a bolt of lightning struck and killed Walter Holbeln, well-known north of England bookmaker, in Tattersall's betting ring, only a few yards away from the King and Queen and their royal guests.

The meeting was, with its attendant fashion display, at its height when the sudden electrical storm occurred. The Royal Hunt Cup race had been run and all was animation within the enclosure.

The King, the Queen, the Prince of Wales and other members of their party, were in the royal box.

The main enclosure and other spaces were flooded in a few minutes in the downpour.

All further racing for the day had to be abandoned.

Society women, caught in a rush for a shelter when a deluge descended on the throng, were thrown to the muddy ground and trampled under foot.

Hats were knocked off, parasols were lost, and some of the women arrived at the stands without their slippers, which had been left behind, stuck in the mud or torn from their feet.

Extraordinary scenes were enacted when the storm, warning of which had been given by a great lowering cloud at the end of the Royal Hunt Cup event, broke suddenly with great intensity.

SNOWDEN WINS FINANCE BILL TEST IN HOUSE

London, June 18.—After having been tied up for more than twenty-one hours in a wrangle over the finance bill, the House of Commons adjourned at noon to-day with the passage of a clause of the budget for which Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had been struggling with his characteristic grimness and determination. The vote on the clause was 232 to 90.

The House battled all night long, sometimes bitterly, over the bill. Exchanges between Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Conservative Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Mr. Snowden, leader of the opposition, were frequent.

It was a dogged contest, the Chancellor yielding no ground to his adversaries. The bone of contention was a clause dealing with the powers of special commissioners of income tax to inquire into share holdings.

WHEAT DROPS TO $1.01 TO-DAY AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, June 18.—The wheat market here made a last minute scramble to-day to evade closing in the darkness of the "nineties." Founded almost as hard as two days ago, when it slipped to record low levels, the market found some support at times to keep it from total collapse. At the finish it was 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents down for the day. July delivery wheat closed at $1.01. On the heels of yesterday's sharp advance came a sudden falling off in foreign interest. Export business overnight was disappointing. Offerings, chiefly from commission houses, rolled into the trading pit at the opening going and sent values scurrying lower. Losses amounted to more than three cents a bushel after the first hour. The October future was down 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents to $1.04 1/2 at the close. December was off 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 at $1.06.

Federal Conservative Leader,
Continuing Election Campaign, Speaks in Vancouver

Also Crosses to North Shore of Burrard Inlet and Speaks in North Vancouver

Vancouver, June 18.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, continuing his election campaign tour, addressed a meeting here last night. Earlier in the evening he had spoken in North Vancouver.

His speech here was devoted mostly to the tariff and trade question. "Mr. Mackenzie King, in his opening speech at Brantford last night, of which I have not yet a complete report," said Mr. Bennett, "again offered to this country a full explanation of some, if not all, of the policies advanced by his party during the last session of parliament with all the persuasiveness at his command. At Winnipeg, on June 9, I stated as clearly as I was able the policies of the Conservative Party, and I gave in the name of myself and of its members our pledge to carry them into effect."

PREFERENTIAL TARIFF
"Mr. Mackenzie King spoke at length on what he may term his scheme of British preferential tariff, and what he probably means as his proposals for Empire trade. In Winnipeg, I said, as a sign of affection and goodwill, as an expression of the hope we all have, that some day a closer economic alliance of Empire states may find a being. I commend the measure for British preference which the Government has introduced. As an exposition of the principles on which may be built an enduring structure of Empire trade, however, I cannot give them my support. A sound partnership is founded on mutual interest. Good business is predicated on reciprocal benefits. Mr. Mackenzie King talks of elementary principles of business.

"He had no knowledge, apparently, of this most elementary one, when he attempted (if he seriously meant to attempt), to develop Empire trade in this way."

READY FOR SURRENDER
"And there is no true Canadian who would not gladly surrender some personal advantage to help the people of the parent state."

"But Britain neither needs nor asks for help like that. What she wants is what we want: Broader areas of trade, developed through an alliance to which we each bring the powers which have made us what we are. She wants with us a greater Empire of the future, and for that, we Canadians must build a greater Canada, for what is good for one is good for both and what is bad for one cannot avail the other."

"To grant a trade preference to another state of the Empire without founding those preferences on a mutually helpful treaty is unsound business, profitless and productive of ill-will and misunderstanding."

"The Empire cannot prevail over such wanton foolishness. DESCRIBED AS PRODIGAL."

"Canada cannot afford such meaningless prodigality. The Empire neither asks for them nor desires them, for we are an Empire of sensible men and women, and sensible men and women know I speak the plain truth."

SPEAKS OF AGRICULTURE
"If Mr. Mackenzie King thinks that on behalf of Canada I will not beg of any country to buy our goods, then he is right. I will not. If he thinks I will not go hat in hand among the nations—so that I may not provoke them—and ask humbly if they will please exchange their goods for ours, he is right; I will not. But if he thinks I will not so build up our agriculture and industrial life that its strength will drive our products into the competitive markets of the world, then he is wrong, for that I will do. If he thinks I will not establish for these products, strive with all my heart to retain them, drive our products with all my power into new markets, into old markets, into reluctant markets, then he is wrong, for that I will do. That is the work of the pathfinder, to blaze the trail through all barriers on the road to national development, to blast a way."

"So will I when government is mine, continue to blast a way through all our troubles and difficulties," said Mr. Bennett. "What else would I be there for? To engage to others with soft words, and to recoil from each rebuff? That is not Canada's way. That is not my party's way."

TRADE TREATY
In his North Vancouver speech he spoke of trade friction over the new Zealand trade treaty. He asked how the British Empire was to be made strong, and replied that trade treaties should be mutually advantageous and reciprocal in their benefits, and not arouse friction between the component parts."

Headliners

For the first time in Canadian broadcasting history a full radio programme originating on an ocean liner will be carried across the continent, when the orchestra of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, which arrives at Quebec on her maiden voyage June 20, will entertain on a special Canadian Pacific broadcast to be heard in Vancouver and the Pacific Coast from station CKWX between 2 and 3 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

Special land wires will be carried from the 28,000-ton liner, destined for service on the Pacific Ocean between the Orient and Vancouver, as she lies at berth in the Quebec harbor, to a transcontinental network of the following Canadian stations linked through the broadcasting systems of the Canadian Pacific Telephones—

Quebec: CKAC, Montreal: CKOW, Toronto: CFTM, Winnipeg: CKCK, London, Ont.: CKCK, Regina: CJRW, Fleming, Sask.: CKCA, Edmonton: CKCJ, Calgary: CKLC, Red Deer: CKWX, Vancouver.

The programme will be under the personal supervision of Alfred Bels, with the assistance of Harry Holland, well-known British bariitone.

BROADCASTING THE OCEAN
The roar of the surf will be brought direct to radio listeners this summer, when a series of programmes are routed from Atlantic City, N.J., over the Columbia Broadcasting System's nationwide network.

The Atlantic City station WPG has had microphones installed in sixteen local centres of interest and activity. Points of broadcasting include the Steel Pier, Young's Mill, the Fair at the Convention Hall, and numerous supper clubs. One microphone will be placed underneath Young's Pier and record the sound of the waves breaking on the shore.

Grand opera in English, in which stars from the Metropolitan and Chicago opera companies are expected to participate, will be broadcast regularly from the Steel Pier. The local musical shows, which are famous on the Atlantic seaboard, will have their share of time.

Orchestras will be directed by Charles Dornberger, Sleepy Hall, Don Bestor, Dusty Rhodes, Charles MacFarlane, Tal Henry, Henry H. Brown, Mill Shaw, Phil Baxter, Ted Weems, Wayne King, Guy Lombardo and other widely known metropolitan leaders, who are going to play at the resort during the summer months.

Organ recitals will be broadcast from the grand convention hall organ. This organ, although only partly completed, can be played without the loss of a single note. When finished it will be five times larger than any other organ in the world.

Some of the programmes will be heard only on WPG and WCAU, Atlantic City and Philadelphia respectively, but a large number will be routed through WABC, New York, over a chain that reaches from coast to coast.

AT THE COLUMBIA

A picture setting that moved at a rate of forty miles an hour among the oddities in the production of "Wonder of Women." Clarence Brown's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, now playing at the Columbia Theatre. It was a moving replica of a German railroad train, in which Lewis Stone, hero of the story, and Peggy Wood, famous stage star brought from New York for the picture, enacted their first meeting. The play is a romance of Europe, adapted from Hermann Sudermann's "The Wife of Stephen Tromholt."

"SONG OF THE WEST"
NOW SHOWING HERE

Ray Enright, who directed Warner Bros. latest all-color, singing, dancing Vitaphone picture, "Song of the West," now at the Dominion Theatre, was born in Anderson, Indiana.

He was educated in Los Angeles and worked for a while on the Vitaphone. His first picture work was as cutter on the earlier Chaplin pictures. He was with Mack Sennett for seven years, serving in addition as "gagman" and becoming editor-in-chief of all comedies.

Mr. Enright worked with the A.E.P. in France and on his return did editorial work for long periods coming to Warner Bros. as cutter.

ENGLISH SOCIETY
FORMS BACKGROUND
FOR CLEVER DRAMA

"The Flirting Widow," the clever comedy laid in high English society, will be the attraction at the Capitol Theatre for the last time to-night.

Dorothy Mackaill and Basil Rathbone head the cast which, with the exception of two players, is made up entirely of British born people. Miss Mackaill appears as an older, unmarried sister, who must find a husband before any of her younger sisters can become betrothed. Rathbone is seen as an English army officer.

"The Flirting Widow" is adapted from A. E. W. Mason's "Green Stockings," the well-known English stage drama. In the cast are Lella Hyams, William Austin, Claude Ollingwater, Emily Fitzroy, Flora Bramley, Anthony Russell, and Wilfred Roy. William A. Seiter directed this First National and Vitaphone production.

THE SPEECH OF A STATESMAN

IF MR. MACKENZIE KING HAD EMPLOYED a collection of generalities to try to convince his audience at Brantford on Monday evening—and, by the aid of the microphone, the people of Canada as a whole—that it is in the interests of Canadians to confirm him in office as Prime Minister of this country, it would be a fairly simple matter to discuss his first speech of the present campaign in the space at our disposal here. But his pronouncements as he related to the business of the Dominion were accompanied by such a comprehensive and informative narrative of things done, of policies now in operation, and a programme for the future, that it would require a great deal more than the inches ordinarily allotted to the treatment of such matters in these columns to do them adequate justice.

It was only natural, of course, that the Prime Minister should dwell at some length upon the accomplishments of which his government may be pardonably proud. When he was called upon to form a ministry in 1921 a very serious unemployment problem confronted the country, while the general economic situation was causing much shaking of heads. The national debt at that time stood at the staggering amount of $2,427,000,000, no less than $174,000,000 of this obligation having been incurred during the last two years of Conservative rule. Nor was this all by any means. The substantial sum of $355,000,000—or an amount equivalent to the net debt of Canada just before the war—had been borrowed from the public treasury to meet railway deficits during the three fiscal years, 1919-1922. From this alone we get some idea at least of the task that faced the new Prime Minister and his colleagues as they assumed their duties. Surely the average voter, be he or she Liberal or Conservative, will not withhold a due measure of credit for the part the government has played in bringing about such a striking improvement in the affairs of the country in the meantime.

Since the major part of the discussions on the hustings during the campaign now in full swing will be devoted to finances, trade and commerce, fiscal matters, and all that pertains to the nation's economic progress and welfare, it is as well to get our perspective from the Prime Minister's reminder that his government not only has very considerably decreased taxation—particularly that affecting the wage-earner—reduced the national debt by something like $170,000,000 in the last five years, but also that it has increased the revenue of the country and strengthened the commercial foundations upon which the Dominion has established its reputation as one of the foremost producing nations of the world.

Thus from a condition which revealed the country floundering in debt, without any fixed policy for financing its payment, with the knowledge that in the previous nine years of Conservative rule no fewer than 1,380,000 Canadians had left the Dominion to earn their livelihood in the United States, with workers in all the large cities finding it extremely difficult to obtain employment, with the country as a whole, to use the words the Prime Minister employed in his Brantford speech, in a "veritable slough of despondency," Canada emerged in a relatively short time upon the broad highway to the prosperous conditions which have marked the last few years of rule under the present administration at Ottawa.

The present and the future obviously are linked together in the economic sense by the Dunning budget. Certain proposals in that document have a specific relation to the forthcoming Imperial and Economic Conferences, as the decisions of these gatherings unquestionably will affect inter-empire commercial associations to a very considerable extent. Paramount among the tariff changes referred to by the Prime Minister, of course, are duty reductions upon a range of commodities which Great Britain is in a position to sell in the Canadian market—amounting in value to something like $200,000,000, correspondingly reducing the selling price in the Dominion of United States exporters—and substantial tariff aid to Canadian manufacturers and agriculturists, many of whose products, from factory and farm, at times have been at a disadvantage in the home market as a result of foreign importations.

Hence, there is assured for Canada, under the King government, a policy of reciprocal trading—a policy, as Mr. Dunning explained to the House of Commons, designed "to serve the best interests of the Canadian people, to increase greatly the British preference in the Canadian market, and to enable Canada to buy more freely from those countries which buy from us most freely those commodities which are of vital importance to us."

To this summary of the King government's record, its plans for the future, may well be added the following extract from the Prime Minister's speech at Brantford:

Standing on a record of sound progressive achievement, we approach the problems of the future with the same faith, courage and optimism which has made possible the achievements of the past years. The "whispers of death," the fear of returning depression, the complaints of an exodus which has ceased, the misgivings for the future, I shall leave to Mr. Bennett and other leaders of the Conservative party, whose last tenure of office was indelibly associated with acute economic depression, and whose minds apparently are still shackled to the ghost of the "whispers of death."

In striking contrast with Mr. King's straightforward, businesslike and constructive message to the Canadian people, we listened in Victoria, on Monday evening, to an outpouring of generalities from Mr. Bennett which possessed neither the merit of freshness nor the saving grace of humor.

DIFFICULTIES NEXT DOOR

IN THE UNITED STATES TO-DAY A dominant political issue is prohibition. Through the nation, from the Capitol at Washington to the lowest dive on the Frisco waterfront, men are discussing the question of enforcement and repeal.

We on this side of the boundary have settled the liquor problem in our own way. What the United States does about it is not for us to judge, but we have indicated our neighborly interest by disassociating ourselves as a nation from those underworld organizations which have made Canada the base for liquor-smuggling business. There is another aspect of the prohibition argument, however, which is interesting to Canadians, apart altogether from the fate of liquor in the future. It is the United States' entire system of government as thrown into relief by prohibition.

Prohibition in the United States is enforced under the eighteenth amendment to the constitution. Before prohibition can be repealed this amendment must be repealed. The men who drew the constitution intended that it should be the creature of the nation, changeable without serious difficulty, as occasion demanded. But through the years the nation has tended to become more and more the creature of the constitution, which is all but unchangeable. Since it was drafted it has been amended only nineteen times, though some 1,300 amendments have been proposed. Indeed, since the days following the Civil War, only four amendments, one of them covering prohibition, have been brought into effect.

To repeal an amendment is as difficult as to pass it. Originally an amendment could be passed or repealed by a vote of ten out of the thirteen little states which formed the Union after the Revolution, and the interests of which, more or less, were common. Since then the Union has grown to forty-eight states, with interests as diverse as those of the fisherman of Cape Cod and the movie actor of Hollywood. To get thirty-six of these states, the number required, to ratify an amendment, is not an easy task. As long as a substantial portion of the country—regardless of its population—stands out against the majority, the majority cannot enforce its will. Here we get a clear idea of the inflexibility of our neighbor's constitution.

THE HIGH COST OF ELECTIONS

CAMPAIGN FUNDS HAVE MANAGED in the course of time to acquire an evil reputation. Perhaps if there were a little more frankness about these things and less whispering, the public would understand them and their purpose better. The publication in England of figures showing the cost of individual campaigns in the last election is thus to be welcomed. Incidentally, these accounts reveal some interesting facts. They show that it cost Premier MacDonald just about nine cents a vote to get elected. Mr. Baldwin spent about $5,000 and Mr. Lloyd George exactly the same amount; but Mr. Baldwin's cost per vote was two cents higher than that of the Liberal leader. Mr. Maxton's seat in Glasgow cost only $350; yet Miss Susan Lawrence, a member of the cabinet, had to spend $4,500.

These figures, no doubt, will seem strange to politicians in the United States. Campaign expenses in the republic run into millions. Mrs. McCormick, indeed, reports that she spent $252,000 in the recent Illinois primary, and she probably will require twice that amount for the election itself next autumn. In Canada, too, the cost of campaigning is much more than in England, though the public has no accurate figures concerning it. This is easily understandable, for when statesmen have to travel perhaps 10,000 miles in the course of an election, their expenses are bound to be high. Lesser politicians, canvassing their own ridings, often cover in this country an area comparable to the whole British Isles.

Our own riding of Cariboo, for instance, stretches all the way from Merritt, in the south, to the remote wilds of the Peace River in the north, and is believed to contain close to 150,000 square miles. To visit isolated settlements by automobile, horse or boat, to meet even a small population in such an area, is a tremendous undertaking and cannot be accomplished without heavy cost. It is part of the price of democratic government, which, with all its defects, is the best form we have been able to find so far.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

The Montreal Canada

We have now reached that time of the year when we ought to redouble our care if we do not wish to see a great increase in the number of street accidents. With the return of summer there is a great increase in traffic. This year it will be thicker than ever in the past if we can go by the number of automobiles registered and by

ONTARIO ENGLISH

Le Canada

We have lately heard of the language of Mr. A. W. Haycock, a member of the British House of Commons, and a native of Ontario, being challenged in the House as "foreign." The speaker overruled the challenge, declaring that he could not say that Mr. Haycock, at the time in question, was speaking a foreign language. Will those learned people here who speak to us French-Canadians of Parisian French, kindly inform us what is the difference between the English spoken in Ontario, and particularly in Toronto, and the English spoken in London?

MR. KING AND MR. BENNETT

The Manitoba Free Press

Between Premier King and Mr. Bennett there is a great difference in regard to their attitude to labor which must be clearly seen by the members of the Labor Party. When Mr. King began his public career he was engaged in dealing with labor problems. A Deputy Minister of Labor, his notable achievement was the framing of the Industrial Disputes Conciliation Act. Since then he has always been interested in and sympathetic towards labor. Mr. Bennett, on the other hand, distinctly represents the corporation interests. From him no initiative or enthusiasm is to be expected with regard to progressive legislation in the interest of labor. Mr. Bennett's great standing offer to the workers of Canada is a policy of high protection as a means of insuring employment.

KIDNAPPERS HELD BY POLICE AT DETROIT

Ten in Prison and Six Hunted; Big Ransom Sums Reported Paid

Crimes Committed During Operation of Rum Running Gangs on River

Detroit, June 18.—Kidnapping of three wealthy Canadians by a Detroit gang has been revealed by state police, who are co-operating with local authorities in rounding up the members of the organization, five suspected members of which are held. Six are sought and ten others are in prison. The three Canadian victims are said to be Samuel Low, sales manager of the Carling Brewing Company, London, Ont., who paid $25,000 ransom, and Maurice and Sydney Matheson, liquor dock operators of Windsor, Ont., who, according to authorities, paid a total of $30,000.

The latter two are said to have denied ever having been kidnapped or having paid any money. Activities of the kidnapping gang extended over a period of two years.

Which girl? "I'm a letter from a fellow who says if I don't stop taking his girl out he'll take drastic action." "What are you going to do?" "Nothing." "Nothing? Why he might shoot you." "Yes, I know. But what can I do? He hasn't signed it."

NEW TARIFF OF U.S. IS IN FORCE TO-DAY

Higher Rates Decided on By Congress Now Imposed on Imported Goods

Canada Interested in President Hoover's Use of the Flexible Provision

By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 18.—Beginning with to-day, importers of Canadian products in this country began to pay higher duties. Shortly after noon yesterday President Hoover affixed his signature to the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill, which thereupon became the law of the land. The rates on cattle, beef, mutton, lamb, poultry (dead and alive), hides, leathers, hams and bacon, lumber, flaxseed, alkali, clover, potatoes, turnips, maple sugar, cream, milk, cheese and fish imported from Canada are raised from 20 to 180 per cent. Simultaneously, by countervailing provisions, Canada has raised the rates against United States products, such as cattle, sheep, goats, fresh lamb, eggs, butter, oats, rye, potatoes and cut flowers to the same level as is provided for in the Hawley-Smoot act.

President Hoover has indicated it is his intention to revise the new tariff law by means of the flexible provision, which puts it in his power to raise or lower duties fifty per cent; and it is said he has particularly in mind those duties which he considers will bear excessively on United States trade with Canada and South America.

In the meantime, however, a Canadian trade worth about $75,000,000 a year will be adversely affected in general, by all unprecedented revision of the whole tariff structure, the United States legislators have struck at Canadian products from the fish and potatoes of the maritime provinces to the softwood lumber of British Columbia.

The new duties went into force at midnight. And Every Hour, Too "Did your husband follow my directions? Did he take the medicine I left for him religiously?" "I'm afraid he didn't, doctor. In fact, he swore every time I gave him a dose."

NEW PLANES TO FIGHT IN SKIES OUT OF SIGHT AND ABOVE THE CLOUDS

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London, June 18.—Airplanes that will fight their battles eight and even nine miles up in the sky, out of range of any anti-aircraft artillery that has yet been invented, are now gradually taking shape.

During the War, it took most planes anything up to half an hour to attain an altitude of 5,000 or 6,000 feet. Now fighters and scouts can rise a thousand feet a minute almost vertically. But these new machines will, in some respects, be unlike anything that is at present in use. The Supermarine 58 and Gloster-Napier seaplanes, which were built for the Schneider Trophy, revealed something more to the technicians than the great possibilities of speed in the air.

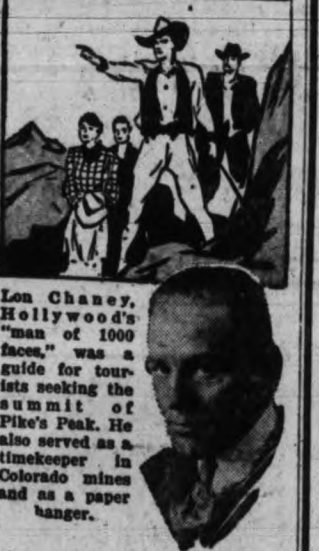

These machines showed, also, that super-charging of engines has been developed to a remarkable degree of efficiency and reliability, and it is super-charging that is the secret of the machines which will be able to manoeuvre in the rarefied atmosphere of great heights without any appreciable loss of speed. The cockpits will be totally enclosed. Only in that way could the pilots of the super-fighters live as they climbed higher and higher. There will be cylinders of oxygen, fed through a mouthpiece in a kind of helmet, to enable the airmen of the height to breathe and to retain consciousness. And not only will the cabins be electrically heated, but the pilots will also wear specially heated clothing.

85 Per Cent. Canadian Flour, Dunning Tells Audience in Saskatoon

Saskatoon, June 18.—In a slashing attack on Hon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, for his criticism of the budget, Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Finance Minister of Canada, last night addressed a large audience here in the interests of Dr. A. M. Young, former member, nominated Liberal candidate for the Commons in the Saskatoon constituency. Declaring Mr. Bennett was an oppo-

ONCE UPON A TIME

Lon Chaney, Hollywood's "man of 1000 faces," was a guide for tourists seeking the summit of Pike's Peak. He also served as a timekeeper in Colorado mines and as a paper hanger.

ent of the Hudson Bay Railway in 1928, Mr. Dunning asked his hearers if they wished to entrust the development of the Hudson Bay route to the men who had staked their political lives on completing the railway, or to those who had become its friends in the last few weeks or months when it no longer needed their help.

TRADE INCREASE
Mr. Dunning replied to critics who called the increase in the British preference an empty gesture. The British West Indies, whose fruit was admitted at reduced duties under the new tariff, had already arranged to reciprocate by giving a preference to Canadian flour, he said.

In the big British stores, Selfridge's, Harrod's and others, an "Empire loaf," consisting of eighty-five per cent Canadian flour, was on sale. He declared this movement, a direct result of the Canadian budget, was going like wildfire, Mr. Dunning said.

A schoolmaster caught a small boy scribbling on a slip of paper. It contained the words: "Blow, blow, draw, blow, draw, blow, blow." "What's the meaning of all this?" the schoolmaster asked. "Please, sir," the youngster replied, "it's the music for my mouf organ."

BENNETT IS SCORED BY KING FOR EXAGGERATING UNEMPLOYMENT STATE

SAYS BENNETT EXAGGERATES

Taking up the question of unemployment conditions in Canada, Premier King said:

"Mr. Bennett has been saying a great deal of conditions of unemployment in Canada during the course of the last few months. I have no complaint to make as to the attitude he has directed to this great economic problem, but I do object most strenuously to the manner in which he has exaggerated it out of all proportion, and to his attempt to convey the impression that the present unemployment in Canada is due to any neglect or failure on the part of the present administration."

WORLD-WIDE CONDITION

"As is well known by all students of economic conditions, the world is now passing through a period of price dislocation, following the recent financial crisis on the stock market.

"In some countries this price depression has led to a pronounced depression and to widespread unemployment. It would be unreasonable to expect they could remain entirely free from the effects of a situation which is universal in its application. At the same time, Mr. Bennett is perfectly aware no country in the world has suffered less from the present depression than this Dominion, and he is not for his desire to exploit unemployment for political purposes, he would I think, as a Canadian be proud to acknowledge and to assert that there could have been no greater tribute to the stability of the industrial and commercial foundations of our prosperity than the manner in which we have met the slackening of business which has taken place within recent months."

The Premier said no country had come through the crisis so well as Canada.

BUREAU'S REPORT

"Before leaving Ottawa a few days ago," Mr. King continued, "I asked the Bureau of Statistics to prepare for me a statement dealing with the position in this country with respect to employment and unemployment during the recent years. The Bureau of Statistics collected monthly reports on the number of employers of over 1,000 firms who employed on May 1, 1930, some 967,000 persons."

"These statistics have been collected monthly since 1921, and are expressed as index numbers with the average for the calendar year 1929 taken as 100."

"I should like to point out to Mr.

Bennett that for every eighty-eight persons employed in these industries when the last Conservative Government was in office, there were 119 persons employed in the year 1929. I should like further to point out that, for every eighty-five persons employed in April, 1921, there were over 111 employed in April, 1930."

"In other words, during the period of the Liberal administration in this country employment in these manufacturing industries has increased by thirty per cent, while the population of the country has only increased at the rate of fifteen per cent. These are figures in which Canadians should take the greatest pride. While realizing the full necessity of meeting the existing conditions of unemployment, this evidence of stability should give us cause for faith and confidence in the sound and unassailable economic structure of our country."

FALSE IMPRESSION

"I venture to predict, however, that no Conservative speaker, despite their avowed attachment to 'Canada first,' will inform you of this splendid tribute to the stability of the Dominion. At a time when other countries are suffering severely from the effects of economic dislocation, they will continue to exaggerate conditions of unemployment and will persist in conveying a false impression of the situation that exists."

"May I say this further, in dealing with the question of unemployment, that in all the discussion of this important question the Conservative Party has put forward no constructive proposal to deal with the root cause of the unemployment problem?"

"A few days ago Mr. Bennett put forward the bright idea of summoning a special session of Parliament to deal with the problem. He is strong on special sessions."

"As to the present proposal," said Premier King, "it is easy to test its worth and its practicality. What constructive and practicable policy has Mr. Bennett proposed for such a session of Parliament to consider? None. What policy did he propose during the session of Parliament just ended, and which was just as good a session as any other? None. Would it be the policy of his first lieutenant and party manager, who urged Parliament to adopt a fantastic policy of bringing 300,000 additional immigrants to western Canada? What would be the position in the west to-day if that policy had been adopted?"

"Would you believe it that the leader who now wants to call a special session to deal with the unemployment did not two short months ago think it necessary to contribute a single word to that debate?"

"But what of his colleagues? What practical idea had they to advance? They ran the changes on two proposals—'Age think it necessary to contribute a single word to that debate?' They ran the changes on two proposals—'Age think it necessary to contribute a single word to that debate?'"

POICIES CONTRASTED

Mr. King asked his listeners if they favored a Conservative policy of "blasting the way to trade," or a Liberal policy of conciliation, friendship and goodwill. The fixed policy of the Dominion, he maintained, was one which would meet with the approval of any party in Great Britain which happened to be in power."

This was an important day in the history of the British Empire as well as other countries, Mr. King said, for to-day at noon, President Hoover, had signed the new United States tariff legislation.

WARNING GIVEN

He proceeded to deal with Canada's position two years ago when the United States changes were first noted. The investigations by the Tariff Board and finally of the budget so recently introduced. The budget was a product of careful thought and research and was not, as suggested by Mr. Bennett, hastily conceived for election purposes. The government had given every warning of its position with respect to the United States tariff policy."

With respect to the St. Lawrence waterway, to which he devoted some time, Mr. King suggested the time might not be far distant when problems which have delayed the construction of that great waterway might be cleared away. Progress in adjusting differences over the power questions with the provinces was being made, but the point had not yet been reached when negotiations should be undertaken with the United States Government."

Mr. Bennett, Conservative leader, was criticizing the government for its inaction on this great question, said Mr. King. He was asking why something had not been done. "I might say to Mr. Bennett: 'Why have not you said something about this in Parliament? You're given to silence on many matters,' remarked Mr. King."

GREAT QUESTIONS

The Premier traced what had been done by the government on the St. Lawrence development. "Linked with the St. Lawrence question," he explained, "were great financial considerations, and also deep constitutional questions, and to make sure that we should make no mistake, we dealt with each of them one by one."

After discussing the steps taken in connection with the engineering and other considerations, Mr. King came to the constitutional question, concerning the relative rights of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec to the water powers as against the rights of the Dominion to water powers and its admitted supremacy over navigation. He referred his hearers to the conference he had last fall with Premier Ferguson of Ontario, and Premier Taschereau of Quebec, at which it was hoped to settle the constitutional question which the Supreme Court had failed to settle."

PROGRESS MADE

"We have had conferences with the Premiers and while very considerable progress has been made, full settlement has not been reached. That is the reason why we have not been able to take the next step on the question—approaching the United States as to the final negotiations on the question."

DEVELOPMENT WORKS

"Having dealt generously with the eastern provinces, with the Maritime Provinces and with our old provinces of Ontario and Quebec, having taken the position that we were right in so doing, we said as the Dominion:

"We are quite prepared to establish a working basis in order to enable us each to get on with the work. We said: 'You can have the power to develop, conditional on navigation requirements. We shall treat you as if you owned the power. Go on with your plans. All we say is that you should submit your plans to us so that we can make sure they fit in with the navigation requirements of the general development.'"

The Federal government had made its proposal to the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, continued Mr. King, but it had not yet been accepted. The provinces felt they had a legal claim for more than was offered. However, after July 26 a lot of the trouble would be over. "This election will be over, and I don't think there will be so much trouble getting together with the provinces," he said, "just at the present time there did not seem to be any indication of the way being cleared further insofar as the St. Lawrence waterways were concerned."

PAYMENTS TO ONTARIO

"Mr. Ferguson had said he was prepared to take the platform and use all the power of my government against this man," all on account of a five-cent piece," said the Prime Minister. In this new phase of his speech he asked his audience to listen to the figures he was about to quote, "and then ask yourself if a five-cent piece is a ground for a quarrel between governments."

Since the present government had come into power, continued the Prime Minister, it had paid to the province of Ontario almost $190,000,000, including $21,140,893 in subsidies, and also large amounts for highways, agricultural instruction, technical education, unemployment relief and old age pensions."

Premier Ferguson knew, declared Mr. King, that these sums had been paid to the province of Ontario by the Federal government. And yet, because of a five-cent piece, he was prepared to throw the full weight of his government into the campaign against the government which had paid these sums to Ontario."

CAREFUL CONSIDERATION

Then Mr. King described to his audience the circumstances under which he had made the five-cent reference in the House of Commons. There had been a lengthy discussion on unemployment, with respect to which "I knew very well what political ends were to be served." In the course of that discussion he had endeavored to make it clear to the house that if the provinces came and asked for aid from the Federal government to meet unemployment conditions, careful consideration would be given to their requests. He had quoted from Premier Ferguson himself to the effect that Ontario did not require such assistance. The five-cent reference made, he said, in answer to interruptions, was intended to apply only to conditions as they existed at that time, and had no bearing whatever on the general policy of the government with respect to unemployment."

Anxious

Tom: "Was the old man violent when you told him you wanted to marry his daughter?"

Sam: "Violent? I should say so. Why, he nearly shook my hand off."

DUNCAN WORKS FOR AIRPORT

City Will Co-operate With Cowichan Municipality, Chamber Informed

More Adequate Freight Shed Accommodation Is Urged at Cowichan Bay

Special to The Times

Duncan, June 18.—Representing the city of Duncan, a committee has been appointed to wait upon the municipality of North Cowichan with a view to co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce in any action that may be taken in connection with the proposed airport for Duncan, the chamber was informed at its meeting in the Fire Hall on Monday evening, with President H. T. Reed in the chair.

The joint committee meeting on the airport question is expected to take place in the immediate future.

COWICHAN BAY WHARF

Communications received included correspondence upon the subject of providing adequate freight shed accommodation on Cowichan Bay wharf. Dr. Garner urged the Chamber of Commerce not to let the matter rest. The question of supporting Duncan

Chamber of Commerce in their activity will be sought at the convention of the Associated Island Boards.

ASSOCIATED BOARDS

The convention of Associated Boards of Trade will be held at Courtenay and Cumberland on July 9 and 10. Delegates will be appointed by President Reed to represent Duncan. Among other subjects that the Duncan delegates will support will be the Malahat Board's resolution, asking the Minister of Public Works that a space 4 feet wide be left on one side of all slippy roads, and on both sides when there is a grade one in fifteen, such space to be blocked and for use of farmers and horse riders.

It will also be asked that suitable old logging roads be opened up for trail riding, especially for visitors.

The Qualicum Board of Trade resolution, that the government be urged to preserve the beautiful stand of timber at Cameron Lake, known as Cathedral Drive, will be supported.

The delegates will again ask the Associated Boards to support their resolution to make the trout season in Cowichan River close from October 15 to March 25. Upon T. Pitt's motion, they will also ask the convention to request the Department of Fisheries to stock the Cowichan River, Quamichan and Somenos lakes with brown trout.

MALAHAT DRIVE

Dr. Garner drew the chamber's attention to the condition of the Island Highway over the Malahat. The road was not in good shape, he said. Corners were built of convex shape, or with an outside slope, which increased danger. He was of the opinion that

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing aids, the Canadian Acousticon Ltd., Dept. 2260, 45 Richmond St. West, Toronto, Ont., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. corners should be of the concave, or inside slope, which would decrease the chance of running over the side. The meeting decided to refer the matter to their public works committee for investigation and report.

PRICE OF GAS

The price of gasoline in Duncan was again brought before the attention of the chamber. Councillor Paul reported that the municipality was willing to co-operate with the chamber and had appointed a committee for the purpose.

Yankees Pounding Towards Top of American League

Terrific Batting Power of Team Is Feature of Spurt

In Winning Last Five Games Babe Ruth and Company Have Crashed Out Eighty-nine Hits for Sixty-nine Runs; Cleveland Indians Were Yesterday's Victims; Washington Lose Chance to Move Out in Front; Boston Braves Jump Into First Division of National League by Double Win Over Cincinnati.

Slow but sure the New York Yankees are pounding their way back to the top of the American League pennant race and they are doing the trick with their powerful bats. Apparently unnoticed, the Yankees have slipped up to within one game of the league-leading Athletics and hold jointly with the Washington Senators and Cleveland Indians the runner-up position.

In accounting for their last five contests, "Babe" Ruth and company put together 89 hits for 69 runs. The Cleveland Indians fell victims to the Yankees' big bats yesterday for the third straight time, losing 17 to 2 when Roy Sherid held them to seven scattered hits. Lou Gehrig connected with his eighteenth home run of the season among his four hits, while Earl Combs and Harry Rice also combined for four Indian hurriers for four hits each. The Senators had a chance to move out in front as the Athletics were idle, but Walter Johnson's team found the St. Louis Browns in one of their hitting moods, so lost 12 to 2. Goose Goslin, once of the Senators, led the St. Louis attack with his first home run as a member of the Browns, while his mate pounded Liska and Marberry for fourteen hits.

The Boston Red Sox hammered three Chicago White Sox pitchers hard to win 9 to 5. The game was the White Sox first home stand against the eastern clubs, and left them with only four victories in twelve games. Cleveland, June 18.—The New York Yankees unleashed a powerful offensive yesterday to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 17 to 2. Lou Gehrig hit his eighteenth home run as a part of the "Yankees' twenty-one hits off four Indian pitchers. The victory put the Yanks in second berth.

St. Louis, June 18.—The St. Louis Browns piled up a big lead to take the last game of the series with Washington here yesterday, 12-9. A five-run rally by the Senators in the ninth was three runs short.

Chicago, June 18.—The Boston Red Sox hammered three White Sox pitchers for fifteen hits yesterday to win the final game of the series, 8-5. Walsh, McKinn, and Caraway worked for the Sox, while Milton Gratch pitched the whole game for Boston.

ALBIE DAVIES HITS BUTTON

Victoria Lightweight Stows Away Mexican Joe Rivers at Spokane

Albie Davies, Victoria lightweight boxer, added a knockout to his credit yesterday evening at Spokane, when he put away Mexican Joe Rivers, Los Angeles, in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout. Rivers was substituting for Dixie La Hood of Butte, Montana, who refused to fight the local boy because Davies was two pounds overweight.

On June 24, Jumbo, brother of Albie, will journey to Prince Rupert to meet Frankie Neal, formerly of Victoria, in a ten-round bout which will be the main event on a card to be offered at the northern port.

Saturday night at Port Angeles, Tommy Drysdale, Victoria, fought a draw with Buck Prince, Port Angeles, in a main event.

(Only games scheduled.)

CANADA HAS HONOR

By JIMMY THOMPSON

Not all the color of the big time fights belong to the United States for although only a few people know that the first world's officially recognized title bout was arranged for in Toronto. That behind closed doors of one of that city's leading hotels, the ring's greatest figure, John L. Sullivan drew up an agreement that he would meet Jake Kilrain for a side bet of $10,000. Nowdays this is pin money in the big ring. Another remarkable thing is the fact that the fight lasted seventy-five rounds until Kilrain's seconds threw in the sponge. Even then Jake claimed on his way home on the train that he very nearly had Sullivan beaten. Not only that, both Sullivan and Kilrain were arrested for staging a prize fight and Sullivan did a year for his trouble. When Sullivan and Corbett met it was for a purse of $25,000 and a side bet of $10,000.

Then the Alberta winners will play in Vancouver and the winning eleven will go East for the semi-finals and finals.

Esquimalt's win over Kerrisdale was not expected, but the Islanders proved fine foragers, and deserved the victory. They will hardly be rated favorites to beat St. Saviour's, however.

Several Marathons Feature Yesterday's Play In Net Tournney

Many Three-set Struggles in Seventeen Matches Played Yesterday at Victoria Tennis Club in Annual Open and Handicap Tournament; J. G. Brown Scores Fine Win Over Paul Phillips; Many Matches for To-day.

Most of the matches yesterday in the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club's championships were decidedly close and some long contests were recorded. The day's play was featured by several surprising upsets. Seventeen matches were played and seven of them went to the extra set.

In the biggest upset of the tournament to date, Scott-Mason, receiving odds, won from Hugo Rayment in straight sets. The winner took both sets at 6-3 and put up a very steady game.

J. G. Brown, who annually seems to cause grief to somebody on the courts, yesterday evening eliminated Paul Phillips in long sets that found Phillips having to concede points which he could not afford to. All three sets went to 6-4 with Phillips winning the second set. The winner received two points a game, while Phillips was playing at minus fifteen one game and thirty the next.

Both Gerald Cunningham and Marsh Gordon had to overcome stiff opposition to win in the handicap singles. Cunningham dropping three and four points on alternating games, had to play well to win from Bagshaw, who annexed six games. Gordon, too, had plenty of trouble with Buster Phillips, who is playing very well this year. Gordon, at 40%, had to overcome a deficit of three and four points a game to oppose Phillips at scratch. Gordon secured good leads in both sets only to have Phillips rally in both sets to bring the score to 7-5, 6-3.

A LONG MATCH
Mitchell and Peel figured in another three-set match, which was one of the longest of the day. The scores were 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. Witter and Ismay, old rivals, had a two-set match that was very close, and the former won by 7-5, 8-6.
In a handicap men's doubles team, Mitchell and Peel defeated the young team of Parker and Backer after a good exhibition. The youngsters forced matters, and being on the receiving end did very well. They dropped the first set at 6-4, but won the second at 7-5. In the third they were not so steady, and did not do so well. Campbell and Isaacs teamed very well, and are considered one of the best teams in the event.
Helen Nicholson in a ladies' handicap eliminated Nora Wilson in a three-set battle. The scores were 6-3, 1-6, 6-3. Miss Nicholson received one point, while Miss Wilson was also minus another point.
Mildred Phillipson and Doris Rines defeated Mrs. Matson and Lucy Brycen in the longest marathon of the day. There was one set point difference in the handicap and the winners got the advantage. The match scores were 6-4, 7-8, 6-3.
Mrs. Knox and Jackson, playing Mrs. Harris and Dudley Wickes, even won another long match in the mixed handicap. They won 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 in a match that seemed endless.
Yesterday's results follow:
Men's Handicap Singles

Provincial Burdens Outrun Population

Figures compiled for the seventeenth annual government and municipal finance supplement of The Financial Post indicate that in their fiscal years ending in 1929, nine Canadian provinces spent $178,000,000 on ordinary account. These expenditures have considerably more than doubled since the end of the war, although the increase in population in ten years has not been great.

"One cannot," The Post remarks, "regard the increase as entirely due to extravagance, although many of our provinces have run berserk in matters of public ownership and paternalism and have, as a result of large expenditures of a semi-socialistic nature, restricted their possible activities in other and more business-like directions. The major portion of the increase must be set down to the increasing tendency in Canada to enlarge the legislative powers and therefore the expenses of the provinces."

"The Canadian provinces have been very jealous of their rights in recent years. Nearly every year some Canadian province has discovered a new privilege which it feels it ought to exercise in preference to the Dominion Government, but these hard-won privileges have proved expensive. In ten years Canadian provinces have increased their annual expenditures by $99,000,000. Last year the increase was $23,000,000. The increase in revenue from natural resources has not been at a similar rate, and the provinces have been forced to devise new means of extracting money from the taxpayer. High succession duties, amusement taxes, gasoline taxes, increased corporation taxes, land transfer taxes and a multitude of additional novel forms of revenue have been invoked to keep pace with the rising tide of expenses.

"The provinces are winning their rights, so-called. But one may wonder if these rights are not being won at too colossal an expense, concludes The Financial Post.

OAK BAY BOY WINS ESSAY COMPETITION

William Campbell Submits
Fine Review of British
Character

Two Hundred Schools Interested in North Saanich
Service Club Competition

William Campbell, student at Monterey School, Oak Bay, has been adjudged the winner of the essay competition sponsored by the North Saanich Service Club, and will be awarded the medal which Lieutenant-Governor Bruce offered through the Service Club as the first prize in the competition.

His essay will also be published in the British Columbia Journal. Stanley Moodie, Willow School, has been awarded a silver medal. The prizes will be presented by the Minister of Education.

The competition was instituted following an address by Hon. Mr. Justice Murphy on "Traits of British Character," given last September before the North Saanich Service Club. Students of over 200 schools on Vancouver Island and the adjacent islands participated in the competition, the essays being judged by a committee including H. Deane, M.P.P., B. C. Nicholas and Dr. S. J. Wallis, Superintendent of Education.

Duncan High School won the first place for the graded schools and Beaver Point school won the award for one-room schools. Willow School submitted the greatest number of essays with thirty-three, North Saanich being second with twenty-nine. Graded schools which earned honorable mention for the fine work of the students were Monterey, Quadra and North Saanich.

PRIZE ESSAY
Following is the essay submitted by William Campbell who is fifteen years of age:

"The innate love of order of the average Britisher may be seen in state matters, where the policies of our British statesmen are carried out in a firm and orderly fashion and are the secret envy of friends and foes alike. Even in the home, orderly arrangement is instilled into the mind from an early age, which is eventually carried on all through the school years and thence into trade, business or the professions. Even in sport the slogan is 'orderly and thorough,' hence our famous armmen, automobile, speed kings, footballers, hockey players, in fact, everything embraced in the world of sport.

"A high standard of efficiency may be seen in the workmanship and brand of goods produced throughout the British Empire. Those magic words, 'British Made' are a guarantee of the quality of the goods upon which they appear. Efficiency is taught in the school, office, workshop, on the hunting and playing fields, and in fact in everything which our hands or brains find to do. It was the efficiency of the British Navy which kept the German fleet bottled up in its own ports during the World War, and it was also the efficiency of that little army of 'contemptibles' which helped to stem the onslaught of the German hordes at the beginning of the war.

"One of the outstanding qualities of the average Britisher is his incapacity to recognize defeat. All through history, and right down to the present time, innumerable instances could be quoted of that never-say-die spirit which has so often turned a seemingly certain defeat into a splendid victory.

"Another ingrained trait of the Britisher is his love of individual liberty. He knows how hard it was fought for, and, therefore, prizes it too much to lightly throw it on one side. Laws are made and are strictly respected, but anything savouring of coercion is quickly resented.

"A spirit of compromise is inherited by most Britishers, always willing to listen to the other side of the question and to submit any controversy to arbitration, and also in assisting other countries to come to an amicable agreement with their differences.

"A sense of fair play is predominant in the average Britisher. Whether it is in business, sports or fighting, the slogan is 'play the game.' That same spirit of fair play is carried out daily in our Courts of Justice, where a man is held innocent until he is proved guilty. In most countries it is just the reverse.

"Another characteristic of the Britisher is the tolerant attitude he assumes with regard to anybody or anything. Where else in the world is so much tolerance shown with regard to religion, outspoken criticisms and even seditious utterances than under the British flag? Even our traitorous soap-box orators are allowed to proceed by our tolerant police, whereas in other countries they would be quickly jailed."

Sooke

Under the auspices of the Sooke Branch of the Canadian Legion B.E.S.L., a successful dinner dance was held at the Belvedere Hotel on Saturday, June 14, the reception hall and dining-room being tastefully decorated for the occasion. Dancing was indulged in to music supplied by Minnie's Orchestra.

During the evening Mr. Trevitt of Victoria gave several songs which were greatly appreciated by all present. Guests at "Ty-Collwyn" rest camp and summer home, include the Misses Pooley of Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett and Mrs. Murel who have been guests at "Ty-Collwyn" for some time, have now returned to Victoria.

Twelve members of the Langford Tennis Club will visit St. Paul's Club at Squamish on Saturday, June 21, for their second league match in the third division of the Vancouver Island League series.

Mrs. F. Ashley Sparks has returned to her home on the Goldstream Road after a brief visit to Vancouver. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Urry have been spending a few days at their summer cottage on Leigh Point, Langford Lake. Cyril and Jack Wilkinson were passengers on the newly-opened ferry route between Victoria and Seattle via Edmonds, on Sunday.

NANAIMO NOTES

Special to The Times.
Nanaimo, June 18.—The Kiwanis Crusaders' Minstrel Show was such a success that the boys have been prevailed upon to give another performance to-night in the St. Andrew's schoolroom.

Miss Edna Peacock, of the Malaspina Hotel staff, was tendered a shower on Friday night by her friends of the hotel, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, Pine Street. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being pink and yellow. During the evening there were guessing contests and a musical programme. Thirty-five sat down to a dainty supper.

The Nanaimo contingent of Odd-fellows have returned from Victoria, after attending the Grand Lodge, I.O. O.F. in that city last week, and report a very interesting session. They were loud in their praise of the treatment accorded them by their Victoria brethren. E. G. Cavalsky was elected grand representative at the Sovereign Lodge, to be held in Indianapolis in September, and Sam Woodcock was appointed grand herald of Grand Lodge.

Alex Millar, popular Nanaimo boy, was laid to rest Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Jenkins Limited undertaking parlors. Rev. J. McTurk conducted very impressive services. The hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Rock of Ages" were sung. There was a very large attendance, and an abundance of followers testifying to his popularity. His chums acted as pall bearers.

Hotel Lobby Gossip

Having come all the way from Pittsburgh to get a glimpse of the heaving swells of the Pacific Ocean, and finding that the open sea was sixty odd miles away, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Knell and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Shodgrass, delegates to the Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, felt that they had missed something, despite the recognized attractions of Victoria.

Angus Allmond, superintendent of agencies for the western division of San Francisco, set out to comfort them. "Well, get the open sea. If we have to drive to Port Renfrew over the Ocean Highway," promised Angus. He had brought his car with him and the machine was requisitioned for an ocean-going cruise on the opening day of the convention.

"We drove out to Sooke and on to Jordan River and although I have made the trip before, I am willing to concede that the Pacific Ocean has receded ten miles," said Mr. Allmond to-day. "But they saw the rolling ocean and are returning home content."

An increasing number of tourists are visiting Victoria according to the registration at the local hotels, which show arrivals from California, Oregon, Puget Sound cities and the eastern states. In addition there has been a considerable influx of visitors from Eastern Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pogson, who left Victoria for England two years ago, have returned after a sojourn in Devon, Mr. and Mrs. Pogson intend to remain here permanently and are staying for the present at the Dominion Hotel.

Dr. D. B. Dillburn and A. W. Cooper of Portland, are also in Victoria, the former being doctor for the Shrine Hospital in the rose city.

Among the Up-Island guests at the Dominion Hotel are Mr. and Mrs. G. Stelly of Cowichan Lake; Dr. D. E. Kerr of Duncan and his son, Forrest; Dr. Kerr of Ottawa; J. Weeks of Nanaimo and H. Gridley of Cowichan Lake.

Up-Islands registered at the Strathcona Hotel include W. W. Sumes of Shawnigan, Col. and Mrs. S. Rice, and D. Rice of Duncan.

Father J. A. Murphy and Father P. D. McCaughey of Prince Edward Island are at the Dominion Hotel.

MORRISON IS ON SHORT END IN P.N.W. GOLF

Victoria Champion 3 Down to Greenway, Seattle, in Second Round To-day

Monty Hill, Vancouver, in Great Form to Finish 6 Up on Bon Stein, Seattle

Vancouver, June 18.—Winning seven of the last eight holes on the morning round at the Vancouver golf and country course in the second round of the P.N.W. amateur championship this morning, Monty Hill, Quichena, was six up on Bon Stein, Seattle, at the end of eighteen holes, while Cecil Corville, Marine Drive, was all square with Forrest Watson, Seattle, who won medal honors in the qualifying round.

Hill and Stein turned all square, but after halving the tenth Hill won the eleventh and twelfth, lost the thirteenth and took the course in a row. On the seventeenth he sank a fifty-foot putt for a birdie three, Hill was out in 38 and home in 33 for a card 73.

Corville was out in 35 as against Watson's 38, but took 37 on the second nine, while Watson got another 38, both finishing with par 72. Watson was forced to sink a fifteen-foot putt on the eighteenth to square the match. Freddie Wood found a tartar in C. D. Gowan, Point Grey, and was one down at the end of the morning round. They were all square after nine holes, and on the second nine both shot superlative golf, getting five birdies between them.

MORRISON THREE DOWN
Jack Greenway, Seattle, was in great form, turning in a card of 71, one under par, for the best showing of the morning, and was three up on Bob Morrison of Victoria.

Frank Dolp, Portland, the defending champion, shot a par 72 to finish one up on Al. Herrington, Yakima. Following are the morning scores:

Monty Hill, Quichena, six up on Bon Stein, Seattle.

Cecil Corville, Marine Drive, all square with Forrest Watson, Seattle. Johnny Robbins, Portland, three up on Les Nichols, Portland.

Malcolm McNaughton, Portland, two up on Edna Hogan, Portland.

Alex. Duncan, Seattle, two up on George Will, Portland.

C. D. Gowan, Point Grey, one up on Freddie Wood, Vancouver.

Jack Greenway, Seattle, three up on Bob Morrison, Victoria.

Frank Dolp, Portland, one up on Al. Herrington, Seattle.

Vancouver, June 18.—Mrs. B. E. Eva of Portland, Oregon state champion last year, was beaten on the twentieth hole by a closely fought match with Miss Kitty Farrel of Jericho in the second round of the Pacific northwest women's golf championship at the Shaughnessy Golf Club here to-day. Mrs. Eva was two down at the sixteenth, but shot birdie three on the next two holes to square up the match. The eighteenth and nineteenth holes were halved.

Mrs. Vera Hutchings of Jericho, defending champion, was in great form to put out Mrs. R. P. Baker, a fellow club member, she negotiated the first nine in 41, one under par, and was four up at the turn. She won 9 and 4. Mrs. A. S. McCallister, who shared medal honors with Mrs. K. S. Reed of Portland, could not make her putter behave to-day, and was beaten by Miss A. M. Pankhurst of California 5 and 4. Miss Pankhurst was five up at the turn. Mrs. Brant Potter of California won the first four holes against Mrs. L. Willey of Seattle, but the latter squared it up on the ninth and Mrs. Potter did not again go in front until the sixteenth. Here she went one up, halving the next two holes to take the match.

Alderman John Worthington, chairman of the City Parks Committee, today piloted Alderman W. H. Cullin, newest member of the committee, around the park, explained the various phases of management and introduced him to officials identified with the maintenance of parks and playgrounds. Alderman Cullin succeeds Alderman Eugene Woodward, who recently resigned as a member of the parks committee.

SCORES SALE OF TREASURY BILLS

Criticism of the recent sale of $4,000,000 of nine months' treasury bills at a cost of 4.35 per cent by Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, is voiced by T. D. Pattullo, leader of the opposition.

"I do not accept the published figures of cost without reservations," says Mr. Pattullo, "but assuming them to be correct, it is well known that short term money in large amount has been available at less cost than 4.35 per cent. Present low rates for call and short term money are due to general economic conditions."

It should be pointed out that the Provincial Government has borrowed $11,000,000 since the close of the last session—a period of three months. It must be remembered that this short term financing will require refinancing next year. In addition, many millions more will require to be financed between now and the end of the fiscal year, outside of ordinary current expenditures.

"Meantime, the wild orgy of expenditure and the tinseled parade continues."

JURORS ACQUIT TOMPKINS AND CONVICT WALLIS

Verdict Draws Distinction Between Parties to Fraudulent Car Sales Agreement

Stanley E. Wallis was convicted and William N. Tompkins was acquitted this afternoon by an Assize Jury, on a charge of obtaining by false pretences $1,685.40 from Rithet Consolidated Limited, by means of a document purporting to be a conditional sales agreement for an automobile valued at $2,905, of which $1,185 was stated to have been paid in cash.

This morning's proceedings included addresses by counsel and the judge's charge to the jury. The Assize jury, on a charge of obtaining by false pretences $1,685.40 from Rithet Consolidated Limited, by means of a document purporting to be a conditional sales agreement for an automobile valued at $2,905, of which $1,185 was stated to have been paid in cash.

This morning's proceedings included addresses by counsel and the judge's charge to the jury. The Assize jury, on a charge of obtaining by false pretences $1,685.40 from Rithet Consolidated Limited, by means of a document purporting to be a conditional sales agreement for an automobile valued at $2,905, of which $1,185 was stated to have been paid in cash.

In order to find Tompkins guilty they will have to find he knew the other man was going to use the documents and so get money by false pretences. Judge Justice also referred to the difference between endorsing notes and signing a document covering a car purchase, the latter being evidence of property by sale of which lending parties might reimburse themselves if necessary.

Stuart Henderson, defence counsel, in his address to the jury, stressed the view that Tompkins had merely signed accommodation notes to temporarily assist his friend and employer, Wallis, and to finance the demonstration car he expected to drive and sell.

Mr. Henderson also pointed out that Wallis swore he had not personally presented to Rithet Consolidated the papers whereon $1,685.40 was advanced.

A. M. Johnson, K.C., crown prosecutor, discussed the comparative credibility of the witness, L. M. Corke, and the accused Wallis, who denied personally presenting documents to Rithet Consolidated. He also contrasted the statement of the witness, Harry Barnes, as to Tompkins having declared in March that he had no intention of buying the car concerned, since contradicted by Tompkins as a witness.

"Not for a moment did the Crown assert that Tompkins knew the car he signed for was non-existent, but does suggest he was a knowing and willing accomplice of Wallis in perpetrating this fraud," Mr. Johnson said.

Mr. Johnson argued that all the world-to-day was conducting business on faith and credit. The fraud disclosed by Tompkins, and no reason existed why the documents presented by Wallis should have been specially investigated by Rithet Consolidated.

LIFE MEN ARE HAVING GOOD TIME

Reliance Delegates Delighted With City, Says Vice-president E. G. McCormack

With Assets of $70,000,000, Company Has $470,000,000 of Insurance in Force

"We are all delighted with Victoria and many of the delegates are so enraptured with the city that they have already decided to return for a longer stay at some future date," said E. G. McCormack, vice-president of the Reliance Life Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, in expressing the sentiments of the Eastern conventionists in the city today.

"I am not a sightseer myself, but that view we got from the Malahat Drive yesterday afternoon brought me to my feet and the beautiful Butchart Gardens made everybody happy," said Mr. McCormack.

SOLD ON VICTORIA
"I have traveled a lot but I have yet to see any place that has anything on this city in beauty of surroundings. We are all sold on Victoria."

It was mainly through the efforts of Mr. McCormack, who was here several years ago, and Angus Allmond, superintendent of agencies for the Western Division with headquarters at San Francisco, that the Reliance Company decided to hold its western regional convention in Victoria.

HAVANA CONFERENCE
The eastern regional convention was held last April in Havana, Cuba, and Mr. McCormack came on to Victoria after attending that conference. In touching upon convention details this morning, Mr. McCormack said that the Reliance Company, which was organized at Pittsburgh twenty-seven years ago, now has $470,000,000 of life insurance in force. The assets of the company are placed at $70,000,000.

The chief message of the convention will be given by Mr. McCormack at the Empress Hotel this evening after attending that conference. The toastmaster will be Mr. Allmond.

There are six head office officials of the Reliance Life Insurance Company here, including W. L. Wilhoite, superintendent of agencies for the eastern division.

To-morrow afternoon the delegates will say au revoir to Victoria and will go their respective ways, some to Washington, Oregon and California and others to Colorado, Texas, Utah and Nebraska.

DR. BARTON FINED BY ALBERNI COURT

Port Alberni, June 18.—Dr. A. P. Barton of Victoria appeared before Magistrate A. G. Fries here yesterday evening, summoned on two informations for practicing medicine in the city contrary to the Medical Act. He was fined $25.

In imposing the fine the magistrate pointed out that this case was a test one, and as such he placed the amount at the minimum.

Evidence was submitted that on June 6, Dr. Barton prescribed treatment for two local residents, one suffering from a broken hip, and the other from stomach trouble.

Under cross-examination defendant stated that he had inserted an article in a local newspaper in which he stated that he was a graduate of the American Academy of Physicians and Surgeons, but, however, he explained that he had never attended that academy, but had taken twenty-eight lectures at Portland.

M. B. Jackson, K.C., who appeared for the defendant, made an effort to have the charge dismissed under the 1930 amendment to the British Columbia Medical Act, which is to the effect that anyone practicing under religious tenets of a church without professing a knowledge of medicine shall not come under the Medical Act.

Defence counsel made a spirited attack on the medical profession, and he claimed with H. B. Robertson, K.C. of Vancouver, who appeared for the prosecution, on several occasions during the trial.

Associated with counsel were L. A. Hanna, M.P.P. for the defence, and Gordon Campbell for the prosecution.

"LIKE MOTHER, LIKE SON!"

Mrs. Eleanor Cass Taught Her Five Boys to Become Skilled in Fencing Art

Five stalwart sons, all following in their mother's footsteps, is the new and feminist version of the old adage, "Like father, like son."

The mother is Mrs. Eleanor B. Cass, head of her own school of fencing, trainer of international renown, the woman who introduced fencing into thirty-five colleges and schools of the east, who for years now has been a teacher of teachers. The five sons are the five Cass boys—fencers all—three now full grown, the other two still in college.

Twenty-five years ago, when she reversed her Mrs. Cass, she turned her favorite pastime, fencing, into what has proved to be a lucrative profession. As each of her five sons grew old enough to hold a foil the mother taught him to fence. All five boys proved apt pupils and became expert fencers. One by one, as they developed enough skill, they entered her school as instructors. Finally, all five boys taught in their mother's fencing institution!

Mrs. Cass came of a professional acrobatic family. Before she could walk, her agile father had taught her to tumble. By the time she was five years old she was a member of his troupe. As she grew older, he taught her to fence, as a means of heightening her precision and poise. By the time she was fifteen she was an expert but they fenced only in private. It was her exercise and recreation.

A FEMINIST FENCER

Married very young, her big family of five sons were all very small when she was forced to think of ways and means of sustaining them. She turned to fencing in a day when a few wealthy men and no women fenced. So fascinating did she herself find fencing that her enthusiasm drew increasing numbers into her private classes until she had enough to start a school. On the wave of popularity which her fencing school started among the elite, Mrs. Cass introduced fencing into Mt. Holyoke, Emerson, Wellesley, Smith and other schools in the east. As her work increased, one by one her sons stepped up to help her. Many schools send their physical training teachers to her school for their training.

John, the oldest son, is now a physician; Robert, second son, is a stage manager; Francis is a newspaper man; Leo is at Harvard; and Edwin, the youngest, is at Boston College. All except John are still associated constantly with Mrs. Cass's school, while John still assists occasionally.

Last year Mrs. Cass and the two youngest boys went abroad for a summer for an intensive summer of European fencing. They gave exhibitions in many capitals and fenced under contract with the most noted European fencers. The boys are considered the greatest foil team in America. Mrs. Cass brought back with her, besides medals, many volumes on fencing to add to her library, the largest and most complete library on fencing in this country.

The Cass family has done much theatrical fencing, having toured Keith's and other vaudeville circuits. The sons have staged many Y.M.C.A. and college bouts. Mrs. Cass and one or two sons go to Newport each year to hold fencing classes there during the social season. But their school and its branch work in colleges occupy most of their year.

LAUDS FENCING AS EXERCISE

"Ten minutes of fencing is equal to one hour of any other physical exercise," Mrs. Cass maintains. "It develops rhythm and co-ordination, as necessary for poise. It keeps the Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal!

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly drive out gas, cleanse and soothe the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisulphate Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Eighty-seven Minor Outbreaks Reported Up to Friday in Southern Interior of B.C.

Nelson, B.C., June 18.—Up until Friday last there were eighty-seven forest fires in the southern interior, according to local forest branch records. Damage in these fires was comparatively light.

Last week some twenty-one forest fires were reported, but all were extinguished without any great damage. Near Roseland on Monday an outbreak occurred which is still being fought by fifteen men. It is under control and is burning over an area which had been burned over in the last few weeks.

No serious fires exist in the district at present.

WALLIS ADMITS HE ENGINEERED FALSE CAR SALE

W. N. Tompkins Unaware of Deception, S. E. Wallis Tells Assize Court

Admission by Stanley E. Wallis that papers purporting to cover sale of an automobile to W. N. Tompkins were false, his assertion that they had been prepared to secure $1,686.40 from Rithet Consolidated Limited, that no such car as that specified existed and that W. N. Tompkins was unaware of the fraud and an innocent party, featured the defence presented yesterday afternoon in the trial of Wallis and Tompkins before Mr. Justice Gregory and a jury in the Assize Court. The two accused were only defence witnesses.

Harry Barnes, manager of Rithet Consolidated Limited, told of an interview with Tompkins in a lawyer's office, when the accused had admitted he had not purchased a car, had no intention of so doing, but had signed papers to help Wallis finance a car. At a later meeting Tompkins had assured the witness of his innocence of wrongful intent. Mr. Barnes said that on March 26, when an inquiry was in progress into the affairs of Wallis, he had been unaware of the existence of Tompkins or that documents in the office bore his name. Benjamin Good of Vancouver, accountant for Consolidated Motors Limited of Vancouver, general agents for Rithet Consolidated, stated that no such car as that described in the agreement had been supplied Consolidated Motors (Victoria) Limited.

Reginald Genn, accountant, declared the firm's ledger showed no payment of sales commissions to Tompkins, neither was the accused entered in any book as a salesman. Counsel for the accused was informed that the car sales book showed sales of certain cars, L. Buckle having purchased a coupe for $1,800, a light car had been purchased by Adderley for $731 and a cabriolet to H. S. Howard for $1,755 and a coupe to I. Chappel for $130. The sales had been made between August 28 and November inclusive. Two cheques marked "commission," for $30 and $37.50, had been issued to Tompkins.

S. L. Hole, insurance clerk for Rithet Consolidated Limited, told of issuing insurance on the car concerned in the sale to Tompkins.

DEFENCE CASE Stanley E. Wallis, one of the accused, took the witness stand, and Tompkins signed an agreement to purchase a car. The witness did not personally take the papers to Rithet Consolidated. He was positive he had not handled the cheque for $1,686.40. The transaction had been for the purpose of financing the car until it was sold, and the stated cash payment of $1,105 was inserted arbitrarily.

The witness did not exist but Tompkins was unaware of the fact. He had been shown a car on the showroom floor and assured that it was the car concerned in the agreement to purchase. The three notes paid on a sale in September to Tompkins had been paid by Consolidated Motors, which sale was not bona fide, the witness admitted. Tompkins had then been working as a salesman. He had earned about $60, selling on a commission of five per cent and had enabled the witness to raise money on the used car he was driving by signing purchase papers.

"He signed the papers for the new car on March 3 so that I could raise the money on the car. I do not think he intended to buy the car," the witness said, when asked about the purchase of the new car. Mr. John asked, "you wish His Lordship and the jury to understand that Tompkins was entirely innocent in this matter, you being entirely responsible?" and the witness replied, "Yes."

Asked whether Tompkins knew that the documents before the court were to be used to secure money from Rithet Consolidated, the witness replied, "Well, I expect he did."

No shareholders' meetings of the Consolidated Motors (Victoria) Ltd. had been held for several years. There were no directors and the witness was the sole owner of the company, paying off a Vancouver interest in monthly instalments.

TOMPKINS' EVIDENCE William N. Tompkins said he had sold cars for Consolidated Motors, earning commissions of $12.50, $37.50, $35 and $27.50. He was licensed by the Province to sell automobiles. Before he signed the car purchase papers Wallis had gone to a car on the floor, lifted the hood and had created the impression he was taking the serial numbers.

"Wallis said a salesman should drive a new car. It should be sold within a month and if any notes fell due before the sale he would meet them himself," the witness stated. "I saw and drove the car I thought was concerned in the agreement I signed, he said."

Judge Gregory commented that the witness was liable for the notes he had signed. Under cross-examination Tompkins said he had signed notes in September, 1929, as a purchaser of a second hand car, but Wallis had paid all the notes. He had never paid one cent on the stated price of that used car. Regarding the purchase on March 3 of a new car, he had thought signing notes and contract would be necessary to enable him to drive a new car. "I did not expect to be 'stuck' for it," he said, declaring he had intended to buy the car with a view to re-sale. The witness vigorously denied knowledge that Wallis needed money, declaring he had believed Consolidated Motors to be financially sound.

The court then adjourned.

THE PEACOCK'S TAIL

By
Mrs. ROMILLY FEDDEN

What a gorgeous pageant of a world it was! As he stepped in his walk, he saw the case on the floor by his bed. Agent for a sewing machine. It added a touch of fancy. Of course she had seen the absurdity at once. He drew out the circular that Rosette had given him. He turned the leaves, looking for a silver machine with a little golden handle. There was nothing of the kind. They were all of them, drum affairs of wood and steel, with attachments of odd name, hemmers and gatherers. Of course she was joking, pulling his leg. He wondered how much was true of what she had said, and came to the conclusion that she had said very little. Yet if Rosette was the explanation for all, for her manner, her speech, her dress, for her contempt of convention, her influence with the natives, her fearlessness. He was late, but he felt no need of sleep, and it was only the wish to hurry on to-morrow that compelled him to seek a few hours of oblivion. That to-morrow would bring him to her, he knew. How or why or where, mattered not. But on his way or at his journey's end, she would surely be. When he awoke in the morning, it was with a moment's bewilderment and then a quick searching of the mind for something ineffable, wonderful, which was waiting to give him happiness. He leapt from his bed. All the feelings of the evening rushed back. But he steadied himself, hummed a contented tune as he dreamed. He had been a little mad; he had presumed too much. He had worked to do. He would see her perhaps when he came back; now sterner duties were before him. He stopped his tune. He packed his few belongings neatly, closed the bag, gave a final glance about the room and went down to breakfast. Rosette was waiting for him, very nervous, but making his feelings by a detailed attention to Leslie's comfort. "They've packed you a small hamper, bread and butter, cold chicken, fruit, a bottle of wine." "But I shall be at El Poukara by lunch time, with any luck!" "Better to be prepared. If your car were stuck—bad mud holes. And just slip this flask in your pocket. Are you armed?" "As a quiet American citizen selling sewing machines!" Leslie asked, smiling. "A Westerner usually carries a gun in a hip pocket. It won't do any harm." "I have my automatic." "That's right. Keep it handy. You never know. And now, here is the money from the safe. I'm rather concerned about it; where had you better put it?" The old man stood with the packets in his hand. "No, don't stop your breakfast. No one will be in again till I ring. How did you bring this out?" Leslie was both amused and touched. "It was in the captain's safe till I landed here. I slept with it under my pillow at the hotel, and I had it in my coat at breakfast. I did not let it go till you took it over." "But to-day, in case..." "Well, in case..." "Wouldn't it be wise..." "What do you suggest? Mind, sir, I'm going through all right. But to please you..." "Why not lock the money in the sewing machine? No one would look for it there. You've got the key." Leslie's heart gave a thump. The old man was afraid for him. The girl had warned him. Well, he must go on. What was the best thing to do with the money? What an odd situation, when money must be carried, not sent by wire or post. He tried to think clearly. If he were shot or captured, the money was on him, it would be taken. In the sewing machine, it might be safe. He looked up with a shade of anxiety. "You know conditions here better than I do. As I understand it, the danger is from the hillmen, not from the Spaniards. Being a neutral I pass the Spanish blockade safely. The question is, how best to conceal the money in case I am shot or captured by the hillmen." "Exactly." "Well, in that unlikely event, they'd get it at once on me. There is a better chance, as you say, in the machine. The car would get through somewhere, sometime. You'd know what it carried. I think you are right." Leslie rose. "Well, I'll go to my room and lock it up. Will you send the man up in five minutes for the luggage?" He wheeled out of the room and went quickly upstairs, shut and bolted his door, unlocked the machine case, drew thin packets of bank notes from his pocket and crammed them into the machine case. He could just get them in and had closed and locked it when he heard the man coming to fetch the things. He unbolted the door noiselessly and was standing by the window when the man entered. Leslie turned. "Ah, take down the luggage. This and the sewing machine. I don't want that machine scratched; roll it up in an old cloth or something and put it in behind." He followed the man downstairs. Rosette met him in the hall. Their farewells were hearty. "Many thanks to you, sir, for your help with the papers. If I were a mad American I'd take your advice and stay here with you. But we Americans like a little adventure and I don't expect there'll be any trouble. You'll see me back in less than a week." The attentive major-domo turned as the porter signalled that the luggage was in the car. The two men clasped hands in a grip that conveyed many things: encouragement, good wishes, and real affection on the part of the older man, and gratitude and determination on that of the younger. Rosette followed Leslie across the patio to the street.

Adverse planetary influences appear to be strong through the business hours of this day, according to astrology. A benefic aspect is strong in the evening. It is wise not to trust one's judgment too far while this rule prevails. Important decisions should be postponed. Lovers' quarrels are supposed to be easily precipitated under this direction of the stars, which cast a gloomy shadow over the life career. This is not a lucky day for aviation plans and special caution should be exercised in aerial navigation. Delay is recommended for all who search for employment. Heads of business may be extremely exasperated under this way of the stars. All the signs preface for every vocation a demand for superlative talents and training. Win youth will prepare industriously for the life career. Merchants should not start any new venture while this configuration continues. (Transcontinental) is not well directed. Again astrologers foretell many novel callings that will be necessary in the development of modern life. Chemistry is subject to planetary influences that seem to preface miraculous discoveries. The evening is promising for success in the arts of public entertainments. Theatres are coming under a fortunate direction of the stars. After sundown the stars will smile on romance and get-togethers. Meetings of strangers of opposite sex. Music and musicians have the forecast of success and popularity. ## BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's June Rose

(Copyright, 1930)
By HOWARD R. GARIS

"What a lovely perfume!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily one day as he was hopping around in his garden, watching the carrots and lettuce grow. It smells just like flowers." "It is a flower perfume, that you smell," buzzed a jolly bee, who was zooming about gathering sweet blossom juice of which to make honey, and yellow dust, or pollen, out of which to make little wax cups to hold the honey. "But I never smelled such sweet perfume before, from the daisies and buttercups," went on Uncle Wiggily, looking at the white and yellow flowers that grew in his garden. "It isn't daisies or buttercups that you smell," buzzed the bee. "Those flowers have very little perfume. If any. What you smell is a new June rose." "Do I? Where is it?" asked the rabbit gentleman. Just then the south wind blew, bringing even a sweeter perfume to the pink, twinkling nose of the rabbit gentleman, and looking down a green lane of tall ferns, Mr. Longears saw a single, large red flower growing on a bush. "Oh, hello, June Rose!" he called. "Is that your lovely perfume?" "Yes," answered the Rose, nodding her head. "I give off a sweet smell, so they say. I'm not so sure of it myself, as I can't smell it." "Indeed you are a lovely flower," spoke the rabbit gentleman. "You are the loveliest and sweetest I have seen this summer. How my wife would love to have you to look at and smell!" "Take me to her," said the June Rose. The rabbit lady put the rose in a vase of water.

"To do that I would have to break your stem from the bush where it is growing," said the rabbit. "Well, I shall not mind that if it will give pleasure to your good wife," said the June Rose. "But if I pick you then you will not last much longer," went on Uncle Wiggily. "True, my wife will put you in water, but even with that, you will soon droop and die. Oh, I don't want to pick you, but I would love to take you to my wife." "Go ahead, then, do it!" called the flower. "True, I shall not last as long if you pick me as I would if I stayed on my bush. But in a little while, even if I stay here, my petals will drop off and perhaps no one will come to see how beautiful I am nor smell how sweet I am. So pick me for your wife, but be careful." "The careful of what?" asked the rabbit. "Of my thorns," said the Rose. "There are long, sharp thorns on my stem that you may stick yourself when you pick me if you aren't careful. You see we roses, or at least most of us, have thorns so we will not so quickly be picked and tossed about away. It is better for me to live for a short time in your bungalow, giving pleasure to your wife, than for me to live a little longer on my bush where no one can see me and where I have the feeling and smelling me. Pick me, please!" So Uncle Wiggily picked the June Rose, taking care to get none of the thorns in his paw. He bit off the stem with his teeth and then he took a green leaf from the wild grape vine and wrapped the flower in it, springing it in a water from the brook to keep it fresh until he could give it to his wife. As Uncle Wiggily was carrying the June Rose wrapped in the leaf up the path, out from behind a mulberry bush suddenly jumped the Woolly Wolf. "Ho! Ho!" howled the Wolf. "What have you there?" Uncle Wiggily did not answer at once, he was so surprised. "You must have something good to eat wrapped in that leaf!" growled the Wolf. "Oh, no, there is nothing good to eat!" said Uncle Wiggily. "It is just something to look at and love and smell." "Nonsense! I guess I know. It's something good to eat! You are trying to fool me and keep it for yourself!" howled the Wolf. "Here! Give me a bite!" With that the Bad Chap made a bite at the curled leaf in Uncle Wiggily's paw. But the Wolf got hold of the stem of the June Rose with its sharp thorns and they stuck his tongue so that he opened his mouth and loudly howled. Away he ran, shouting: "Oh, there must have been red pepper on whatever you have in that leaf! Oh, how it stung and burned me!" "Ha! Ha! After this I guess you will let my June Rose alone!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Did he hurt you?" he asked the flower as he gently opened the leaf. "No, on all right. He just bit some of my thorns," said the June Rose. "Now take me to your wife." Which Uncle Wiggily did. And when the rabbit lady put the June Rose in a vase of water it perfumed the whole bungalow and everybody said it was too lovely for anything. And if the satine doesn't jump out of its can of olive oil and try to ro swimming with the kipped herring, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the woodpecker.
